

JBR Recovery Ltd

HUMAN RIGHTS POLICY

1. Human Right Policy

1.1 Introductory Scope

Respect for human rights is one of the fundamental values of the corporate strategy behind JBR Recovery Ltd ("JBR") which dedicates particular attention to compliance with, & implementation of, principles & obligations enshrined in binding voluntary national & international laws governing this subject matter. JBR guarantees respect for universally recognised human rights & commits that all of its commercial partners comply with, observe & adopt the values shared by JBR.

1.2 Human Rights in the Supply Chain

JBR undertakes stringent policies & procedures to ensure that the precious metals in the supply chain originate from legal & ethical sources, not associated with crimes, armed conflicts or human rights abuses, & that precious metals will not be exploited for money laundering, financing terrorism &/or tax evasion/fraud &/or any other crimes.

1.2.1 Prohibition of Child Labour

Nobody may be hired if they are below the minimum age permitted by law in their respective jurisdiction.

The minimum age of completion is deemed to be the age of compulsory schooling, which is 15, as set out in ILO Convention No. 138, or not less than 14 in those countries in which this is permitted under local law.

1.2.1.1 Hazardous Work

JBR does not tolerate the employment of minors for hazardous work which, due to its nature or circumstance, could endanger the health, safety, customs or lifestyle of minors below the age of 18. In those cases contemplated under local laws, where a minimum age of 16 is permitted, JBR will tolerate the employment of minors only if the health & safety, customs & lifestyles of the minors involved are protected in every respect, & that the minors have received appropriately specific instructions or professional training in the corresponding field of activity.

1.2.1.2 Worst forms of child labour

JBR does not tolerate the worst forms of child labour as described by ILO Convention No. 182 on the worst forms of child labour.

1.2.3 Non-discrimination.

Every individual must be treated with respect & dignity.

JBR does not tolerate & condemns any form of discrimination & any form of harassment or prejudice on grounds of race, ethnic origin, gender, religion, handicap, age or sexual identity & any illegal form of threat or intimidation.

JBR does not tolerate any form of discrimination in the workplace in relation to hiring, remuneration, overtime, & access to training, promotion, the end of the employment relationship or retirement. Similarly, political or religious activities in the workplace are not tolerated, neither by employees of JBR nor third parties.

All employees shall enjoy equal opportunities without any discrimination based on factors unrelated to their capacity to carry out their work.

1.2.4 Freedom of association & collective bargaining

Within the limits permitted under any mandatory legislation, all employees shall be free to decide on whether to set up or join trade unions or equivalent representative organisations, & to exercise their rights to collective bargaining.

1.2.5 Workplace safety

For JBR workplace safety is of fundamental importance.

All collaborators, in particular managers, must comply with the mandatory rules & regulations on safety in the workplace & in employment so as to ensure overall safety in the workplace.

1.3 Human Rights Due Diligence

Human rights Due Diligence at JBR is an integral part of the general Due Diligence process & its objective is:

- To identify & assess the risk of violation of human rights;
- to prevent & mitigate the negative impact of the risks detected, if they are linked to the activities of JBR either directly or indirectly; &
- to manage the negative impact if this impact derives from the direct or indirect activities of JBR Ltd.

Human rights Due Diligence must take place before initiating the business relationship. The corresponding checks must be repeated during the business relationship whenever this is deemed necessary or if changes regarding the risk of the violation of human rights become known.

1.4 Monitoring the Observance of Human Rights

In order to check whether human rights are being respected by its contractual partners, the relevant Due Diligence process at JBR contemplates a series of measures which include the following:

- Information & sharing of its policies in relation to human rights;
- Document analysis in order to check & confirm whether the counterparts are complying with the local laws governing this subject matter;
- Site visits, including if possible, the opportunity of guided interviews with workers to assess the situation & the workplace conditions;

- Special clarifications in the case of doubts &/or suspicions regarding the violation of human rights;

- Refusal to initiate or termination of the business relationship in the event that unacceptable violations are detected which are impossible to manage & which run contrary to the principles shared by JBR Ltd.

1.5 Definitions

Human Rights are rights universally recognised to which all human beings are entitled to, regardless of race, sex, nationality, ethnicity, language, religion, or any other status.

All human rights are universal, inalienable, indivisible & interdependent.
